Forecast For Scotland
Issued by Met Office Aberdeen
at 1600 on Wednesday 21 Apr 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 1800 and 0600

Headline:
Widespread overnight frost. Thursday, sunny spells becoming cloudier in north.

This Evening and Tonight:
Dry with clear skies for much of Scotland, more in the way of cloud and a few showers for the Northern Isles and cloud increasing later for the Western Isles. With light winds, a widespread frost will develop.

Thursday:
Mainly dry and bright with sunny spells, especially across southern and central parts. Cloudier across Shetland with a few showers, and becoming rather cloudy across the north in the afternoon.

Outlook for Friday to Sunday:
Settled conditions largely continuing with light winds and plenty of sunshine, as overnight frosts become more isolated. Risk of a few afternoon showers, especially over the hills, through the weekend.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.